REGULATORY GUIDE 139

Oversight of the Australian Financial Complaints Authority

March 2018

About this guide

This regulatory guidance sets out how we will perform our oversight role in relation to the Australian Financial Complaints Authority (AFCA). It also includes the financial firms' AFCA membership obligations.

This guide should be read in conjunction with Regulatory Guide 165 Licensing: Internal and external dispute resolution (RG 165).

About ASIC regulatory documents

In administering legislation ASIC issues the following types of regulatory documents.

Consultation papers: seek feedback from stakeholders on matters ASIC is considering, such as proposed relief or proposed regulatory guidance.

Regulatory guides: give guidance to regulated entities by:

- explaining when and how ASIC will exercise specific powers under legislation
- explaining how ASIC interprets the law
- describing the principles underlying ASIC's approach
- giving practical guidance (e.g. describing the steps of a process such as applying for a licence or giving practical examples of how regulated entities may decide to meet their obligations).

Information sheets: provide concise guidance on a specific process or compliance issue or an overview of detailed guidance.

Reports: describe ASIC compliance or relief activity or the results of a research project.

Document history

This draft guidance was issued in March 2018 and is based on legislation and regulations as the date of issue.

A Overview

Key points

Financial firms must have a dispute resolution system that consists of:

- internal dispute resolution (IDR) procedures that meet the standards or requirements made or approved by ASIC; and
- membership of the Australian Financial Complaints Authority (AFCA).

Each year, the IDR and external dispute resolution (EDR) framework provides access to redress for many tens of thousands of Australian consumers, small businesses and superannuation fund members who have a complaint against a financial firm.

Our dispute resolution guidance includes:

- Regulatory Guide 165 Licensing: Internal and external dispute resolution (RG 165), which sets out how financial firms that are required to comply with IDR requirements meet their obligations; and
- this guide, which sets out how we will administer ASIC's powers and perform our oversight role over AFCA.

This guidance updates our existing policy on financial services EDR to reflect the reforms introduced by the Treasury Laws Amendment (Putting Consumers First—Establishment of the Australian Financial Complaints Authority) Act 2018 (AFCA Act).

The AFCA Act implements the Australian Government's response to the Review of the financial system external dispute resolution and complaints framework, which commenced in October 2016 (Ramsay Review).

Financial services dispute resolution framework

RG 139.1 Under s912A(1)(g) and 1017G(1) of the Corporations Act 2001 (Corporations Act), s47(1) of the National Consumer Credit Protection Act 2009 (National Credit Act), s101(1) and (1A) Superannuation Industry (Supervision) Act 1993 (SIS Act), and s47(10) and (2) of the Retirement Savings Accounts Act 1997, financial firms are required to have in place a dispute resolution system that consists of:

- an IDR procedure that complies with standards and requirements made or approved by ASIC; and
- membership of AFCA, the EDR scheme for financial complaints in Australia.

RG 139.2 Certain financial firms, including most credit representatives and exempt special purpose funding entities (exempt SPFEs), do not have IDR requirements but must be a member of AFCA: see s64 and 65 of the National Credit Act and regs 23B and 23C of the National Consumer Credit Protection Regulations 2010 (National Credit Regulations).

Note: Table 2 sets out the dispute resolution requirements by type of financial firm.

RG 139.3 The Treasury Laws Amendment (Putting Consumers First—Establishment of the Australian Financial Complaints Authority) Act 2018 (AFCA Act), significantly reshaped the Australian financial services dispute resolution framework.

Note: A reference to the AFCA Act is a reference to the Treasury Laws Amendment (Putting Consumers First—Establishment of the Australian Financial Complaints Authority) Bill 2017, as passed by both Houses of Parliament on 14 February 2018. The AFCA Act amends the Corporations Act and other financial services and credit laws and repeals the Superannuation (Resolution of Complaints) Act 1993.

RG 139.4 The AFCA Act implements the Australian Government’s response to the Ramsay Review, which was a comprehensive and independent review of the financial services dispute resolution framework. The Ramsay Review made 11 recommendations, including:

- (a) the creation of a single EDR scheme for all financial complaints based on an industry ombudsman model and including specific legislative provisions to support the effective resolution of superannuation complaints;
- (b) increased access for individual and small business consumers through higher monetary limits and compensation caps;
- (c) enhanced accountability and reporting arrangements, as well as new ASIC oversight powers; and
- (d) improved transparency of IDR performance.

RG 139.5 The Explanatory Memorandum to the Treasury Laws Amendment (Putting Consumers First—Establishment of the Australian Financial Complaints Authority) Bill 2017 (Explanatory Memorandum) states at paragraph 1.4:

The new EDR framework will ensure that consumers and small businesses are able to access an EDR scheme that provides fast and fair resolution of financial complaints in a way that is binding on financial firms.

RG 139.6 The establishment of AFCA, under authorisation by the Hon. Kelly O’Dwyer MP, Minister for Revenue and Financial Services, replaces the predecessor EDR schemes—the Financial Ombudsman Service (FOS), the Credit and Investments Ombudsman (CIO) and the statutory Superannuation Complaints Tribunal (SCT).

AFCA authorisation criteria

RG 139.7 In authorising an EDR scheme, the Minister must be satisfied that the mandatory requirements under s1051 will be met. The Minister must then take into account the general considerations (in s1051A) and any other matters the Minister considers relevant: see s1050. Only one EDR scheme can be authorised by the Minister at any time.

Note: Table 1 sets out the key definitions we apply in this guidance.

- RG 139.8 The authorisation criteria require AFCA to meet the mandatory requirements under s1051, which are:
- (a) organisational requirements;
 - (b) operator requirements;
 - (c) operational requirements; and
 - (d) compliance requirements.
- RG 139.9 In taking into account the general considerations for the AFCA scheme under s1051A, the Minister will consider the:
- (a) accessibility of the scheme;
 - (b) independence of the scheme;
 - (c) fairness of the scheme;
 - (d) accountability of the scheme;
 - (e) efficiency of the scheme; and
 - (f) effectiveness of the scheme.
- RG 139.10 The general considerations are based on the principles in the Benchmarks for Industry-Based Customer Dispute Resolution (EDR Benchmarks), first published by the then Department of Industry, Science and Tourism in 1997 and updated and reissued by Treasury in 2015.
- RG 139.11 The EDR Benchmarks formed the basis of our approach to approving the previous, industry-based EDR schemes.
- RG 139.12 We have provided guidance on industry-based EDR schemes for many years. This version of RG 139 retains our previous guidance where it is now reflected in the legislation or consistent with the Ramsay Review recommendations that were accepted by the Australian Government.

Note: See the appendix for further information on the EDR Benchmarks.

ASIC's role

- RG 139.13 The objectives of Ch 7 of the Corporations Act are to promote:
- (a) the confident and informed participation of consumers and investors in the Australian financial system, which is also an objective of ASIC under s1 of the Australian Securities and Investments Commission Act 2001 (ASIC Act);

DRAFT

- (b) fairness, honesty and professionalism by those who provide financial services;
- (c) fair, orderly and transparent markets; and
- (d) the reduction of systemic risks.

Note: See s760A of the Corporations Act.

RG 139.14 Within this framework, we are responsible for overseeing the effective operation of the dispute resolution system, which includes setting standards and reporting for IDR and providing oversight of AFCA. Consumer and small business access to fair, timely and effective dispute resolution is a central part of the financial services consumer protection framework.

RG 139.15 ASIC's oversight role and specific powers in relation to AFCA are dealt with in Section C.

Terminology

RG 139.16 Table 1 sets out the key definitions we apply in this guidance.

B AFCA membership

Key points

This section sets out:

- who can join AFCA; and
- financial firms' external dispute resolution requirements.

Who can join AFCA

RG 139.17 Under s1051(2)(a) it is an organisational requirement that membership of AFCA is open to every entity that is required to be a member of an EDR scheme under:

- a law of the Commonwealth;
- an instrument made under such a law; or
- the conditions of a licence or permission issued under such a law.

Note: See Table 2 for a list of financial firms covered by s1051(2)(a).

RG 139.18 The AFCA Board may accept eligible members to the scheme in accordance with the scheme's constitution.

RG 139.19 In addition to the financial firms set out in Table 2, AFCA is also able to accept other categories of members who are not required to join the scheme as a licensing requirement. This includes firms operating under an exemption, such as the fintech licensing exemption provided by ASIC's regulatory sandbox framework. Other firms may also elect to join AFCA.

RG 139.20 With some exceptions (e.g. credit representatives and exempt SPFEs), financial firms must also have IDR procedures that comply with the standards and requirements made or approved by ASIC: see RG 165.

Financial firms' external dispute resolution requirements

RG 139.21 Table 2 sets out in detail financial firms' dispute resolution requirements and their requirements to be members of AFCA.

Table 2: Dispute resolution requirements by type of financial firm

Firm type	Description	Dispute resolution requirements
Australian financial services (AFS) licensees	An AFS licensee is a business carrying out financial services. This includes businesses that: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • provide financial product advice to clients; • deal in a financial product; • make a market for a financial product; • operate a registered scheme; • provide a custodial or depository service; or • provide traditional trustee company services. 	Under s912A, AFS licensees must have a dispute resolution system that consists of: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • IDR procedures that comply with the standards and requirements made or approved by ASIC (see RG 165) that cover complaints made by retail clients in relation to the financial services provided; and • membership of AFCA.
Unlicensed product issuers and unlicensed secondary sellers	An unlicensed product issuer is an issuer of a financial product who is not an AFS licensee. An unlicensed secondary seller is a person who offers the secondary sale of a financial product under s1012C(5)(b) or (8) and who is not an AFS licensee.	Under s1017G(2), unlicensed product issuers and unlicensed secondary sellers are required to have a dispute resolution system that consists of: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • IDR procedures that comply with RG 165 that cover complaints made by retail clients in relation to the financial services provided; and • membership of AFCA.
Superannuation trustees	A trustee of a regulated superannuation fund or of an approved deposit fund, other than a self-managed superannuation fund.	Under s101(1)(a)–(c) of the SIS Act, each trustee of a regulated superannuation fund, other than a self-managed superannuation fund, or of an approved deposit fund must: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • be a member of AFCA; and • have an IDR procedure that complies with the standards, and requirements, mentioned in s912A(2)(a)(i) of the Corporations Act. Note: However, s101(1)(a)–(c) of the SIS Act does not apply to a trustee if the trustee is required under the Corporations Act to have a dispute resolution system complying with s912A(2) or 1017G(2) of the Act.
Australian credit licensees (credit licensees)	Credit providers and lessors, including those who are assigned the contractual rights of a credit provider or lessor (which can include debt collectors who purchase a debt from a credit provider or lessor). Credit service providers (such as brokers and other intermediaries), and others (such as debt collectors) who act on behalf of the credit provider or lessor.	Under s47 of the National Credit Act, credit licensees are required to have a dispute resolution system that consists of: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • IDR procedures that comply with RG 165 that cover disputes relating to credit activities they and their credit representatives engage in; and • membership of AFCA.

Firm type	Description	Dispute resolution requirements
Credit representatives	A credit representative is a person authorised to engage in specified credit activities on behalf of a credit licensee under s64(2) or 65(2) of the National Credit Act. The employees and directors of a credit licensee do not need to be formally authorised—they act as representatives of the credit licensee without a specific authorisation. A person can also be authorised as a credit representative by more than one credit licensee.	Credit representatives do not need to have IDR procedures that meet the standards and requirements made or approved by ASIC. This is because a credit licensee's IDR procedures must cover disputes relating to its credit representatives. Under s64 and s65 of the National Credit Act, most credit representatives are required to be separate members of AFCA. However, a person who has been sub-authorised under s65(1) of the National Credit Act, and is an employee or director of the body corporate that gave the sub-authorisation, does not need to be a separate member of AFCA. Note: See reg 16 of the National Credit Regulations.

Firm type	Description	Dispute resolution requirements
Unlicensed carried over instrument (COI) lenders (including prescribed unlicensed COI lenders)	A 'carried over instrument' is a contract or other instrument that was made and in force, and to which an old Credit Code applied immediately before 1 July 2010: see s4(1) of the National Consumer Credit Protection (Transitional and Consequential Provisions) Act 2009. Unlicensed carried over instrument lenders (unlicensed COI lenders are credit providers or lessors who only have a closed pool of carried over instruments and have chosen not to obtain a credit licence (or to restrict their activities to their carried over instruments, and subsequently cancel their credit licence). Note: A 'prescribed unlicensed COI lender' is an unlicensed COI lender who fails to meet certain probity requirements and who has restrictions placed on their conduct in relation to their carried over instruments. A prescribed unlicensed COI lender must not engage in credit activities with respect to their carried over instruments (other than the activities engaged in solely by being the credit provider or lessor). They must instead appoint a credit licensee to act as a 'representative' to engage in credit activities on their behalf with respect to their carried over instruments.	Unlicensed COI lenders (including prescribed unlicensed COI lenders): <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • must have IDR procedures that comply with RG 165 and cover complaints in relation to the credit activities they engage in with respect to their carried over instruments; and • may choose to join AFCA. Note 1: Details of the obligations of unlicensed COI lenders are set out in Information Sheet 110 Lenders with carried over instruments (INFO 110), Regulatory Guide 205 Credit licensing: General conduct obligations (RG 205), Regulatory Guide 206 Credit licensing: Competence and training (RG 206) and Regulatory Guide 207 Credit licensing: Financial requirements (RG 207). Note 2: A prescribed unlicensed COI lender may arrange for their credit licensee's dispute resolution system to cover complaints in relation to their carried over instruments. C Oversight of AFCA

Key points

This section describes the broad AFCA governance framework and sets out ASIC's oversight role in relation to AFCA. This includes ASIC's powers to issue regulatory requirements, give directions and approve material changes to the scheme.

It also sets out how we will administer the reporting requirements in the AFCA Act, including AFCA's obligation to:

- refer matters to appropriate authorities;
- refer settled complaints;
- refer systemic issues; and
- report on scheme statistics.

Principles of the governance framework

RG 139.22 Stakeholder confidence in the independent and effective operation of AFCA is supported by a robust and transparent accountability and governance framework. This framework comprises Ministerial authorisation and ongoing AFCA Board and ASIC oversight. It will also be supported by:

- (a) a forward-looking, responsive and independent organisational culture;
- (b) a public commitment to continuous learning and improvement; and
- (c) systems and reporting arrangements that create trust and confidence in AFCA, and in the financial services system more broadly.

RG 139.23 We will approach our oversight responsibilities in a way that:

- (a) ensures compliance with the mandatory requirements;
- (b) is consistent with the Ministerial authorisation and conditions;
- (c) respects the operational independence of AFCA; and
- (d) supports AFCA to deliver independent, timely and fair decisions for consumers and financial firms.

RG 139.24 From time to time, we will review this guidance and any relevant legislative instruments in consultation with the AFCA, financial firms, consumer representatives and other interested stakeholders.

The AFCA Board

- RG 139.25 The operator of the scheme is to be confirmed on authorisation by the Minister. The operator is a company limited by guarantee that is operated on a not-for-profit basis.
- RG 139.26 The AFCA Board has an independent chair and an equal number of directors with industry and consumer representative experience. The board must ensure that the mandatory requirements are complied with: see s1052. It must also comply with any conditions that are specified by the Minister at the time of authorisation and with any ASIC regulatory requirements on an ongoing basis.
- RG 139.27 The board is also responsible for appointing AFCA decision makers and the independent assessor, conducting independent reviews of the scheme, and reporting to ASIC and publicly.

ASIC's powers

- RG 139.28 ASIC has a range of powers in relation to AFCA under the Corporations Act. These include powers to:
- (a) issue regulatory requirements, including by legislative instrument, relating to compliance with:
 - (i) the mandatory requirements under s1051; or
 - (ii) any of the general considerations scheme under s1051A;
 - (b) issue directions to AFCA if we consider that AFCA has not done all things reasonably practicable to ensure compliance with the relevant legislative requirements (s1052C);
 - (c) issue directions to AFCA to:
 - (i) increase limits on the value of claims that may be made or the value of remedies that may be determined (s1052B); and
 - (ii) take measures to ensure that the operations of AFCA are sufficiently financed (s1052BA); and
 - (d) approve material changes to the AFCA scheme (s1052D).
- RG 139.29 The Explanatory Memorandum confirms that while ASIC has an enhanced oversight role over AFCA, the scheme remains independent and responsible for its own internal processes and the management of disputes. ASIC has no role in individual complaints handling and will not intervene in the decision making processes of AFCA.

- RG 139.30 Our regulatory requirements form part of the compliance requirements for AFCA. If AFCA fails to comply with any regulatory requirement, we may issue specific directions (under s1052B or s1052BA) or a general direction (under s1052C) to AFCA requiring it to comply.
- RG 139.31 We will use these directions powers as a last resort, and subject to the requirements in the Corporations Act to give AFCA adequate notice of any intention to issue a direction.
- RG 139.32 AFCA must also refer (or report) certain matters to one or more of ASIC, the Australian Prudential Regulation Authority (APRA), the Commissioner of Taxation. These include referring:
- (a) contraventions and breaches (s1052E(1) and (2));
 - (b) settled complaints (s1052E(3)); and
 - (c) systemic issues (s1052E(4)).

Material changes to the AFCA scheme

- RG 139.33 It is a mandatory requirement under s1051(5)(b) that material changes to the scheme are not to be made without the approval of ASIC under s1052D.
- RG 139.34 AFCA may request ASIC to approve a material change to the AFCA scheme. In considering whether to approve the change, we must take into account the:
- (a) mandatory requirements under s1051;
 - (b) general considerations under s1051A;
 - (c) any conditions imposed by the Minister on the authorisation of the scheme under s1050(5)(b) and
 - (d) any regulatory requirements under s1052A.
- RG 139.35 Examples of changes to AFCA that we would consider material include:
- (a) changes to the scheme's jurisdiction as set out in the AFCA terms of reference;
 - (b) changes to the terms of reference of the independent assessor; and
 - (c) changes to relevant time limits including time limits for accessing the scheme, as well as time limits for 'refer back' arrangements.
- RG 139.36 Changes that may require ASIC approval are not limited to what is in the AFCA terms of reference, but could extend to matters dealt with in operational guidelines—for example, if these have a material impact on the scheme or its users. AFCA will consult publicly about changes it is proposing to the scheme.

Reporting requirements

Referring matters to appropriate authorities

- RG 139.37 Section 1052E(1) requires that AFCA must give particulars of a contravention, breach, refusal or failure to APRA, ASIC or the Commissioner of Taxation (as appropriate) if it becomes aware, in connection with a complaint under the AFCA scheme, that:
- (a) a serious contravention of any law may have occurred;
 - (b) a contravention of the governing rules of a regulated superannuation fund or an approved deposit fund may have occurred;
 - (c) a breach of the terms and conditions relating to an annuity policy, a life policy or an RSA may have occurred; or
 - (d) a party to the complaint may have refused or failed to give effect to a determination made by AFCA (see s1052E(1)).

Note: Section 1052E(2) relates to the requirements for reporting serious contraventions where the complaint relates to the scheme provided for by the Australian Defence Force Cover Act 2015. This guidance does not address these requirements.

- RG 139.38 Under the previous framework, ASIC-approved EDR schemes reported serious misconduct to ASIC in accordance with policy settings in RG 139. This test has been applied to include fraudulent conduct, grossly negligent or inefficient conduct, wilful or flagrant breaches of relevant laws, and non-compliance with scheme decisions or processes.

- RG 139.39 The Corporations Act now has specific requirements that AFCA refer contraventions and breaches to appropriate authorities: s1052E.

- RG 139.40 We consider that a contravention will be serious (and therefore reportable by AFCA to ASIC) under s1052E if:

- (a) there are sufficient facts or information to found an objectively reasonable belief that it is serious; or
- (b) AFCA in good faith forms the view that a serious contravention of the law may have occurred.

- RG 139.41 A reasonable belief will be formed if a reasonable person would expect AFCA to report the matter to ASIC.

- RG 139.42 In considering what constitutes a ‘serious contravention of any law’ reportable by AFCA to ASIC, AFCA should take into account the Explanatory Memorandum, which states at paragraph 1.87 that:

In relation to serious contraventions of law, it is intended that this will generally relate to laws relevant to the subject matter and circumstances of a complaint made to AFCA and the complaint handling processes, rather than necessarily to a contravention of any law (emphasis added).

DRAFT

- RG 139.43 It is likely that there will continue to be some ‘grey area’ in which the need for referral is not straightforward. AFCA should consult with ASIC if it is unsure about whether or not to refer a particular matter to ASIC.
- RG 139.44 The obligation to report applies to serious contraventions of laws by financial firms, including licensees and representatives or employees.
- RG 139.45 We expect that serious contraventions reportable to ASIC under s1052E will include serious contraventions of financial services and credit laws.
- RG 139.46 The particulars of the contravention (which are required to be provided under s 1052E(1)) include the name of the financial firm, licensee, representative or employee.

Format and timing of reports

- RG 139.47 Reports should be made within a reasonable time—but no later than 30 days—of AFCA becoming aware that a serious contravention has occurred or may have occurred.
- RG 139.48 AFCA should not necessarily wait until a complaint has been finalised before reporting to ASIC.
- RG 139.49 From time to time, we may specify the required form of reports of serious contraventions.
- RG 139.50 In specifying requirements, we will consult with APRA, the Australian Taxation Office (ATO) and AFCA with a view to harmonising and streamlining reporting arrangements as far as practicable.

Referring settled complaints

- RG 139.51 If the parties to a complaint made under the AFCA scheme agree to a settlement of the complaint and AFCA thinks the settlement may require investigation, AFCA may give particulars of the settlement to one or more of APRA, ASIC or the Commissioner of Taxation: see s1052E(3).
- RG 139.52 To the extent it is practical to do so, we expect AFCA to oversee settlement arrangements to ensure that they are:
- (a) limited to the subject matter of the complaint;
 - (b) not drafted so broadly that they preclude a consumer lodging a further complaint or taking other action in relation to matters that are not the subject of the complaint;
 - (c) not drafted to preclude a consumer referring a complaint to a regulator;
 - (d) not offered on onerous or unjust terms, or in circumstances designed to avoid the scrutiny of AFCA; and
 - (e) not being entered into as a result of duress or misrepresentation.

RG 139.53 The particulars of the settlement under s1052E(3)) include the name of the financial firm, licensee, representative or employee involved.

RG 139.54 Where AFCA identifies issues arising from settlements that may warrant referral under s1052E(3)), reports should be made within a reasonable time—but no later than 30 days—of AFCA forming the belief that a settlement may warrant investigation.

Referring systemic issues

RG 139.55 If AFCA considers that there is a systemic issue arising from the consideration of complaints under the AFCA scheme, AFCA must give particulars of the issue to one or more of APRA, ASIC or the Commissioner of Taxation: see s1052E(4).

Note: See RG 139.181–RG 139.187 for detailed guidance on AFCA’s systemic issues role.

RG 139.56 The particulars of systemic issues reportable to ASIC under s1052E(4) include the name of the financial firm, licensee, representative or employee involved.

RG 139.57 AFCA may identify a possible systemic issue in the course of resolving a complaint that, after investigation, AFCA decides is not systemic. Consistent with our guidance in RG 139.184, AFCA must have systems and processes in place to:

- (a) identify systemic issues that arise from its consideration of complaints;
- (b) refer these matters to the financial firm for response and action; and
- (c) report systemic issues in accordance with s1052E(4).

RG 139.58 AFCA may also identify systemic issues that relate to general industry practices or that involve multiple financial firms. AFCA should report the particulars of such issues or concerns to ASIC.

RG 139.59 Reports should be made within a reasonable time, but no later than 30 days of AFCA becoming aware of a systemic issue. AFCA should not necessarily wait until a complaint has been finalised before reporting to ASIC.

Information sharing

RG 139.60 The AFCA Act includes amendments so that officers and other staff members of APRA, ASIC and the Australian Taxation Office may disclose protected information to AFCA to assist it to perform its functions.

Note: See s56(5)(aa) of the Australian Prudential Regulation Authority Act 1998, s127(4)(aa)(i) of the ASIC Act, and s355-65(3) in Sch 1 to the Taxation Administration Act 1953.

DRAFT

- RG 139.61 AFCA should ensure it has appropriate processes for the receipt and management of information shared by APRA, ASIC or the ATO in accordance with these provisions.
- RG 139.62 AFCA's terms of reference should also provide for the release of information to other regulators—including the Office of the Australian Information Commissioner, a regulated securities exchange, or a disciplinary body where appropriate procedures are in place between AFCA and the body to provide for the release of such information.

Statistical reporting requirements

- RG 139.63 AFCA will collect, record and report information to ASIC on a quarterly basis about:
- (a) the number of complaints received;
 - (b) the demographics of consumers that lodge complaints;
 - (c) the number of complaints that fall outside AFCA's terms of reference (with reasons);
 - (d) the scheme's current caseload, including the age and status of open cases;
 - (e) the time taken to resolve complaints;
 - (f) the profile of complaints to enable identification of:
 - (i) the type of product or service involved;
 - (ii) the product or service provider;
 - (iii) the nature of the complaint; and
 - (iv) any systemic issues or other trends; and
 - (g) the number of complaints closed, and an indication of the outcome of each closed dispute;
 - (h) the stage of AFCA's process where the complaint closed.

RG 139.64 A comprehensive summary and analysis of this information must also be contained in AFCA's annual report.

RG 139.65 We may, in consultation with AFCA, develop additional reporting requirements, including by legislative instrument. We will seek to harmonise and streamline data collection and reporting with other relevant data sets, such as firm-level IDR data.

Public reporting of AFCA complaint data

RG 139.66 AFCA must publish information about complaints received and closed, with an indication of the outcome, against each scheme member on an annual basis. AFCA may exercise discretion not to publish information about members whose level of complaints fall below a certain threshold. AFCA must be transparent about its publication methodology. This data supports comparability between member firms that operate similar businesses.

RG 139.67 We expect AFCA to:

- (a) ensure this information is accurate; and
- (b) present the information in the appropriate context—for example, by categorising member information according to industry sector and/or size of business.

Further review and communication of our reporting guidance

RG 139.68 This reporting guidance provides a basic framework within which AFCA should operate. This framework will be subject to periodic review in consultation with AFCA, APRA, the ATO, industry, consumer representatives, and other interested stakeholders. We may issue more detailed regulatory requirements about reporting from time to time: see s1052A.

RG 139.69 We will hold regular meetings with scheme staff to discuss the operation of the reporting guidelines and relevant operational issues.

D AFCA compliance requirements

Key points

We may issue regulatory requirements that form part of AFCA's compliance requirements. These relate to:

- compliance with the mandatory requirements under s1051; or
- any of the general considerations under s1051A.

This section sets out our guidance relating to the general considerations for an EDR scheme, which are the principles of:

- accessibility;
- independence;
- fairness;
- efficiency and effectiveness; and
- accountability.

These principles have been applied to the oversight of ASIC-approved financial services EDR schemes for many years, and will continue to apply in a single scheme environment.

Accessibility

- RG 139.70 To meet the accessibility requirements, AFCA must:
- (a) be free of charge for complainants;
 - (b) clearly communicate who is eligible to complain and the complaints it can and cannot deal with;
 - (c) promote awareness of and access to the scheme;
 - (d) communicate in a clear, timely and relevant way to consumers, financial firms and other stakeholders and ensure scheme processes are easy to use and understand, and simple to navigate; and
 - (e) clearly set out in its terms of reference how legal proceedings can be brought where a complaint has been lodged with the scheme.

Cost to consumers

- RG 139.71 It is a mandatory requirement that complainants are exempt from payment of any fee or charge in relation to a complaint: s1051(2)(d). This applies not only to a complainant accessing AFCA, but also to having their complaint dealt with in full by the scheme.

Complaints AFCA can and cannot deal with

- RG 139.72 It is a mandatory requirement that membership of AFCA is open to every firm that is required to be a member of an authorised EDR scheme: s1051(2)(a).
- RG 139.73 AFCA's terms of reference set out its jurisdiction—who is eligible to complain and what complaints it can and cannot deal with.
- RG 139.74 The Corporations Act also includes specific provisions for the resolution of superannuation complaints, including:
- (a) when complaints relating to superannuation can be made (s1053);
 - (b) AFCA's powers in relation to superannuation complaints (s1054–1054C); and
 - (c) the determination of superannuation complaints (s1055–1055D).
- RG 139.75 Exclusions from AFCA's jurisdiction are based on statutory exclusions and the well-established exclusions from the jurisdictions of predecessor schemes.
- RG 139.76 Examples of the types of complaints that may be excluded from AFCA, subject to specific drafting in the terms of reference, include complaints that:
- (a) have been dealt with in another forum;
 - (b) are above the scheme's monetary limit at the time the complaint was made;
 - (c) are outside the scheme's time limits;
 - (d) relate to a firm's commercial policy;
 - (e) relate to the management of a fund as a whole;
 - (f) relate solely to the underlying performance of an investment; or
 - (g) are frivolous, vexatious, misconceived or lacking in substance.
- RG 139.77 Where the financial firm and consumer consent, AFCA may accept complaints outside the minimum jurisdiction. This may occur, for example, where a financial firm:
- (a) agrees to extend access and to be bound by AFCA's terms of reference and decisions for certain complaints that may have otherwise been excluded (e.g. out of time); or
 - (b) is running a remediation program and agrees to waive monetary or other limits to provide access to EDR for its affected customers.
- RG 139.78 While a financial firm may agree to waive time or monetary limits to provide access to AFCA, the scheme itself retains its power to exclude certain complaints if it forms the view that the complaint is frivolous, vexatious or that the complaint should more properly be dealt with in another forum (e.g. a court).

Promoting awareness of and access to AFCA

- RG 139.79 AFCA should actively promote the scheme with timely, targeted communications and stakeholder engagement strategies.
- RG 139.80 Demographic data about complainants should inform AFCA's promotional and outreach activities, to ensure that vulnerable or under-represented groups are identified and targeted.
- RG 139.81 Financial firms also have specific disclosure obligations to make their customers aware of IDR and of AFCA.

Clear communications and easy to use processes

- RG 139.82 AFCA should adopt appropriate communications strategies for consumers, financial firms and to other stakeholders with a focus on promoting understanding of AFCA's role, processes and decision making.
- RG 139.83 Communications should be clear, timely, and relevant to the audience. They should support the different access needs of different complainant types.
- RG 139.84 AFCA should consider behavioural principles when designing its communications, which include:
- (a) making it easy to lodge a complaint;
 - (b) giving clear, timely and tailored communications to help consumers and member firms understand scheme processes and timeframes;
 - (c) making it simple to engage with AFCA staff; and
 - (d) making it easy to seek help at any stage of the process.
- RG 139.85 AFCA should review the effectiveness of scheme communications in response to survey data or other information. This may include, for example, feedback from the independent assessor or other internal quality assurance processes that suggests there may be a problem in member or complainant understanding of scheme processes, decisions or jurisdiction.

Financial firm referrals to AFCA

- RG 139.86 From time to time, a financial firm may wish to directly refer a complaint to AFCA for resolution. This may be necessary where a firm has given a final response to the complainant at IDR but the complaint remains unresolved and the complainant has not escalated it to AFCA. Firms making such referrals will require the consent of the complainant to do so.
- RG 139.87 For complaints involving hardship notices or requests for postponement of enforcement proceedings, there may be an increased need for financial firms to directly refer complaints to the AFCA, because interest and other default charges may continue to accrue.

Legal proceedings by financial firms

- RG 139.88 AFCA's terms of reference must set out that legal proceedings should not be commenced by financial firms when a complaint has been lodged with AFCA, unless:
- (a) the legal limitations period is about to expire; or
 - (b) there is a test case situation.
- RG 139.89 By 'test case situation', we mean complaints involving a novel point of law or circumstances requiring clarification.
- RG 139.90 Commencing legal proceedings in relation to a complaint lodged at AFCA creates the potential for financial firms to undermine the EDR process. There is also the possibility that the same complaint will be dealt with in two competing forums, wasting time and resources.
- RG 139.91 However, we recognise the importance of allowing financial firms to preserve their legal rights where the legal limitations period is about to expire, and in test case situations.
- RG 139.92 AFCA's terms of reference should provide that, where a financial firm commences legal proceedings in a test case situation, the financial firm should pay the consumer's legal costs.

Debt recovery proceedings

- RG 139.93 Where legal proceedings relating to debt recovery proceedings have already commenced and a complaint is lodged at AFCA, the terms of reference must require the firm not to pursue the legal proceedings beyond the minimum necessary to preserve its legal rights.
- RG 139.94 Such complaints should be accepted by AFCA at least up until the point where the consumer has taken no step beyond lodging a defence or defence and counterclaim (however described), unless otherwise excluded from AFCA's jurisdiction under its terms of reference.
- RG 139.95 For the avoidance of doubt, a complainant will not be considered to have taken a 'step' if they attend a directions hearing or agree to consent orders of a procedural nature only being made in those legal proceedings.
- RG 139.96 AFCA should exclude small business lending complaints (including primary production complaints) from its debt recovery legal proceedings jurisdiction where the credit limit of the credit contract that is the subject of the complaint exceeds the applicable monetary limit.

Note: The 'credit contract' is a contract under which the credit is or may be provided.

- RG 139.97 In determining whether the relevant limit is reached, AFCA must apply the limit to the small business credit contract that is the subject of the lending complaint. This means that the value of linked credit contracts cannot be taken into account when applying the limit.

Legal proceedings and traditional trustee complaints

- RG 139.98 Where a person has commenced legal proceedings to be included as a beneficiary under an estate, AFCA must put on hold all related traditional services complaints that may depend on the outcome of the legal proceedings until the court hands down its decision.
- RG 139.99 AFCA should also have processes in place by which financial firms who are trustee companies can notify the scheme as soon as they become aware that a person has commenced legal proceedings to be included as a beneficiary.

Independence

- RG 139.100 The Corporations Act establishes AFCA's governance framework, including that the scheme is authorised by the Minister and that the operator of the scheme will have an independent chair and equal numbers of directors with experience in the kinds of businesses operated by scheme members and in representing consumers: s1051(3)(d) and (da).
- RG 139.101 The mandatory requirements under s1051 relating to independence include requirements that the:
- (a) operations of the scheme are financed through contributions made by members of the scheme (s1051(2)(b));
 - (b) scheme has an independent assessor (s1051(2)(c));
 - (c) operator of the scheme commissions the conducting of independent reviews of the scheme's operations and procedures (s1051(3)(a));
 - (d) operator of the scheme is a company limited by guarantee (s1051(3)(b)); and
 - (e) operator's constitution provides that the operator must not be operated for profit (s1051(3)(c));
- RG 139.102 It is also a mandatory requirement that complaints against members of the scheme are resolved (including by making determinations relating to such complaints) in a way that is fair, efficient, timely and independent: s1052(4)(b).

Resources available to AFCA

- RG 139.103 It is a mandatory requirement that the operations of the scheme are financed through contributions made by members of the scheme: s1051(2)(b).

RG 139.104 The Ramsay Review made the following findings in relation to scheme funding:

First, there should be a stronger requirement for the single EDR body to demonstrate that it has adequate funding and flexibility to respond to unanticipated events.

Secondly, financial transparency should be improved, so that users of EDR can understand how funding is collected and used. Transparency about funding arrangements, and levels of revenue and expenditure, provides an important form of accountability. It also has the potential to drive efficiencies, which reduces the costs imposed on users.

Note: See Ramsay Review, Final report: Review of the financial system external dispute resolution and complaints framework, May 2017, p.180.

RG 139.105 AFCA should adopt a funding model and funding arrangements that will ensure it is sufficiently financed. The model and arrangements should:

- (a) be adequate, fair and efficient;
- (b) be transparently developed, reviewed and amended by reference to the statutory criteria and external operating context;
- (c) be capable of responding to external events such as unexpected volatility in caseload;
- (d) minimise cross-sectoral subsidisation to the extent practicable; and
- (e) be able to raise additional funds to support scheme operations, if required.

RG 139.106 AFCA must develop and consult appropriately with financial firms and other stakeholders on its funding arrangements having regard to the statutory criteria, current and forecast caseloads.

RG 139.107 AFCA is also required to report to the responsible Minister annually on any decisions to vary fees.

Note: See the Hon. Kelly O'Dwyer MP, Minister for Revenue and Financial Services, Putting consumers first—improving dispute resolution, media release, 14 September 2017.

RG 139.108 If we become aware that AFCA has not done all things reasonably practicable to ensure that the operations of the AFCA scheme are sufficiently financed, we may issue a direction under s1052BA.

Fairness

RG 139.109 All stages of AFCA's complaints handling and decision-making processes must accord with the principle of procedural fairness.

RG 139.110 AFCA's terms of reference will set out its decision-making approach.

DRAFT

- RG 139.111 For superannuation complaints, AFCA must apply the decision-making test in s1055. This requires AFCA to be satisfied that the decision, in relation to the complainant, or the conduct was fair and reasonable in all the circumstances: s1055.
- RG 139.112 In making a determination of a superannuation complaint, AFCA has all the powers, obligations and discretions conferred on the trustee, insurer, RSA provider or other decision maker who made the original decision: s1055(1). This is consistent with the powers of the SCT.
- RG 139.113 For non-superannuation complaints, AFCA will apply the decision-making test set out in its terms of reference. This test will require AFCA to achieve the fair resolution of complaints in accordance with its statutory mandate, and includes criteria such as having regard to relevant laws, applicable industry codes of conduct and good industry practice.
- RG 139.114 AFCA should provide written reasons for any decision made about the merits of a complaint, including when it is judged to be outside its jurisdiction.

Information sharing

- RG 139.115 In making its decisions, AFCA should only rely on information that is made available to all parties.
- RG 139.116 Effective and timely dispute resolution does not, however, necessarily require the physical exchange of all relevant documents or information between the parties. This is the case, for example, when:
- (a) written reasons about a scheme's decisions clearly identify the documents or information relied on; and
 - (b) the identified documents or information can be provided to the parties on request.
- RG 139.117 AFCA's terms of reference should reflect a general presumption that a financial firm does not have the discretion to withhold documents or information from a complainant.
- RG 139.118 There may be some limited circumstances where a firm might request AFCA to withhold certain information. This may occur where the release of information would endanger a third party or where it would compromise a firm's general security measures.
- RG 139.119 AFCA has specific statutory powers to obtain information from parties for the resolution of superannuation complaints. This includes powers to:
- (a) obtain information and documents (s1054A);
 - (b) powers to require attendance at conciliation conferences (s1054B);

- (c) powers to give directions prohibiting or restricting the disclosure of documents or information relating to the complaint (s1054BA).

RG 139.120 If a party to a complaint fails to provide information, or comply with a specific AFCA request for additional information within the timeframe set by AFCA, AFCA may take whatever steps it considers reasonable in the circumstances. This may include proceeding to resolve the complaint on the basis that an adverse inference may be drawn from the failure to comply with the information request.

Efficiency and effectiveness

RG 139.121 To meet the requirements for efficiency and effectiveness over time, AFCA will need to take into account and respond to:

- (a) changes in financial services and credit markets and/or consumer behaviour;
- (b) law reform or other changes to regulatory settings or standards adopted in industry codes;
- (c) recommendations made by the independent assessor or arising from an independent review; and
- (d) exceptional circumstances or events (e.g. leading to significant increases in complaint numbers).

RG 139.122 In determining whether AFCA is meeting the efficiency and effectiveness requirements, we will consider factors such as:

- (a) the timeliness of scheme decision making;
- (b) adequacy of AFCA's jurisdiction and remedies over time;
- (c) AFCA's measures to ensure financial firms' comply with scheme procedures, timeframes and decisions;
- (d) effectiveness of scheme communications and processes;
- (e) feedback from stakeholders, including members; and
- (f) implementation of recommendations made by the independent assessor or from an independent review.

RG 139.123 The Corporations Act also provides that AFCA may, on its own initiative, or on the request of a party, refer a question of law arising in relation to the making of a determination relating to a superannuation complaint to the Federal Court for decision: s1054C.

Coverage of the scheme

- RG 139.124 AFCA's coverage must be sufficient to deal with:
- (a) the vast majority of types of consumer complaints in the relevant industry (or industries); and
 - (b) consumer complaints up to the value of the applicable monetary limit and award compensation to the value of any applicable compensation cap amount.
- RG 139.125 ASIC has an ongoing role to ensure that the scheme's jurisdiction remains appropriate over time.

Types of complaints

- RG 139.126 AFCA's terms of reference should clearly describe its jurisdiction.
- RG 139.127 AFCA should collect data about the type and numbers of complaints that it cannot deal with. This data will help inform future reviews to determine whether certain limits on AFCA's jurisdiction should be retained, reviewed or extended.
- RG 139.128 AFCA's operational experience, stakeholder feedback and developments in case law will inform any proposed changes to scheme jurisdiction, procedures or the terms of reference.

Monetary limits and compensation caps

Superannuation complaints

- RG 139.129 For superannuation complaints as defined in the Corporations Act, there are no limits on:
- (a) the value of claims that may be made under the scheme; or
 - (b) the value of remedies that may be determined under the scheme (see s1051(4)(f)).
- RG 139.130 This preserves the pre-existing access to external dispute resolution for superannuation fund members and beneficiaries under the SCT.

Standard complaints

- RG 139.131 For all other complaints, AFCA applies monetary limits and compensation caps. These are set out in the AFCA terms of reference.

Note: See the Hon. Kelly O'Dwyer MP, Minister for Revenue and Financial Services, and the Hon. Craig Laundy MP, Minister for Small and Family Business, the Workplace and Deregulation, Consumers win as a one-stop-shop for financial complaints passes through parliament, joint media release, 14 February 2018

- RG 139.132 Compensation caps apply on a ‘per claim’ basis. This means that separate claims by the same complainant must not be aggregated by AFCA for the purpose of determining a maximum claim.
- RG 139.133 In operating compensation caps:
- (a) AFCA should deal with the complaint and make an award up to its compensation cap (or higher if the financial firm agrees);
 - (b) consumers with a complaint involving an amount that is higher than the compensation cap may be required to waive the excess at the end of the AFCA process; and
 - (c) the AFCA outcome should not bind the consumer if they do not choose to accept it.
- RG 139.134 If the consumer accepts the AFCA decision, AFCA or the firm may require the consumer to accept the AFCA outcome as full and final satisfaction of their claim and it will be binding on both parties (i.e. the balance of the claim cannot be pursued in court).

Changes to monetary limits and compensation caps

- RG 139.135 AFCA will operate higher monetary limits and compensation caps than operated under the predecessor financial services and credit schemes.
- RG 139.136 The AFCA Act requires that an independent review of AFCA’s operations must be undertaken as soon as practicable after 18 months of operation. The review will examine the appropriateness of limits on the value of:
- (a) claims that may be made under the AFCA scheme; and
 - (b) remedies that may be determined under that scheme.

Note: See s4 of the AFCA Act.

- RG 139.137 The periodic independent reviews of AFCA will consider the continuing effectiveness of the monetary limits and compensation caps.
- RG 139.138 When determining whether the monetary limits and compensation caps remain fit-for-purpose, the Ramsay Review considered the following principles to be relevant:
- (a) the substantial majority of consumer disputes should be able to be resolved by the EDR body;
 - (b) the monetary limits and compensation caps should reflect general economic indicators and the current values of financial products held by consumers;
 - (c) the impact on competition of increasing the compensation cap (as a result of smaller financial firms being unable to obtain professional indemnity (PI) insurance and therefore being unable to enter or remain in the market) should be considered; and

- (d) the monetary limits and compensation caps should be easy for consumers to understand and for the EDR body to apply.

Note: See Ramsay Review, Final report: Review of the financial system external dispute resolution and complaints framework, May 2017, p. 155.

RG 139.139 We will take these principles into account. We may also consider the:

- (a) value of any complaints excluded from AFCA jurisdiction;
- (b) need to ensure AFCA's small business jurisdiction remains appropriate;
- (c) appropriateness of indexation arrangements;
- (d) prevalence and value of any uncompensated AFCA determinations; and
- (e) desirability of aligning the monetary limits and compensation caps, as reflected in the Ramsay Review recommendation.

RG 139.140 Section 1052B of the Corporations Act gives ASIC a power to issue a direction requiring an increase in the limits on the value of claims that may be made or the value of remedies that AFCA may determine under the scheme: see RG 139.28. The Explanatory Memorandum states at paragraphs 1.67–1.68 that:

This power is intended to be used as a last resort to ensure that the claim and remedy limits can be increased if they become inadequate over time.

Any increase in relation to the claim or remedy limits will be prospective and cannot apply in relation to complaints that the AFCA scheme receives prior to ASIC giving the direction.

Indexation of the compensation cap

RG 139.141 AFCA must adjust the compensation cap every three years using the higher of the increase in the consumer price index (CPI) or the increase in Male Total Average Weekly Earnings (MTAWE).

Interest on awards

RG 139.142 To provide an outcome that is fair and reasonable in all the circumstances, AFCA may—in specific cases—award interest or earnings in addition to the amount awarded by a compensation cap.

RG 139.143 In calculating any award of interest, AFCA may calculate interest from the date of the cause of action or matter giving rise to the claim. In doing so, AFCA may take into account any factors it considers relevant—including, but not limited to, the extent to which the conduct of either party contributed to the delay.

RG 139.144 In making a determination of a superannuation complaint, AFCA may take the actions set out in s1055, to place the complainant and any other associated person in such a position (or as nearly as practicable) that the unfairness, unreasonableness (or both) no longer exists. In some circumstances, this will involve the calculation of interest.

Where an AFCA member ceases to carry on business

RG 139.145 AFCA's constitution gives the scheme a discretion as to whether to cancel a firm's membership and/or to continue to handle complaints where the firm:

- (a) ceases to carry on business (e.g. closes its doors to consumers but still has an AFS licence or credit licence, or where a financial service provider sells its business);
- (b) ceases to have a licence; and/or
- (c) becomes insolvent.

RG 139.146 In exercising this discretion, AFCA will consider complainants' interests. An example of where it may be in complainants' interests not to cancel a firm's AFCA membership, and/or to continue to deal with a complaint or complaints, is in insolvency situations, where an AFCA decision may assist in showing that a consumer is a creditor and has a 'proof of debt'.

RG 139.147 We recognise that this discretion will be exercised on a case-by-case basis, also taking into account the:

- (a) likelihood that there will be funds available to meet any compensation awarded (e.g. whether underlying PI insurance is likely to respond to the claim); and
- (b) availability of any other mechanism to achieve compensation.

Time limits for lodging complaints at AFCA

RG 139.148 The AFCA terms of reference should clearly set out the time limits for lodging complaints.

Superannuation complaints

RG 139.149 The Corporations Act and AFCA terms of reference set out certain mandatory time limits for superannuation complaints. This includes complaints relating to the payment of a:

- (a) death benefit (s1056); and
- (b) disability benefit because of total and permanent disability (TPD).

RG 139.150 Other than in very limited circumstances (see s1056(3)), AFCA has no discretion to extend these mandatory time limits.

Standard complaints

- RG 139.151 For most non-superannuation complaints, the time limits to lodge a complaint at AFCA will be the earlier of either:
- (a) six years from the date that the consumer first became aware (or should reasonably have become aware) that they suffered the loss; or
 - (b) two years from when a final response is given at IDR (see RG 165.87–RG 165.121).
- RG 139.152 The standard time limits at RG 139.151 apply, unless AFCA considers that exceptional circumstances apply or the firm and AFCA agree to AFCA having jurisdiction.

Time limits for hardship and some credit disputes

- RG 139.153 AFCA will apply appropriate time limits for those aspects of credit disputes that relate to hardship applications, unjust transactions and unconscionable interest and other charges under the National Credit Code. For such complaints, the time limits for bringing a complaint to AFCA are the later of either:
- (a) two years from when the credit contract is rescinded, discharged or otherwise comes to an end (or, in the case of a consumer lease entered into on or after 1 March 2013, two years from when the lease is terminated, discharged or otherwise comes to an end); or
 - (b) two years from when a final response is given at IDR (see RG 165.87–RG 165.121).
- RG 139.154 Where a complainant seeks more than one, or several, changes to the terms of the credit contract or lease for hardship during the life of the contract or lease, each complaint relating to a hardship notice must be treated as a new complaint to allow the consumer access to AFCA.

Compliance with scheme decisions

- RG 139.155 It is a mandatory requirement for AFCA under s1051(4)(b) and (d) that:
- (a) complaints against members of the scheme are resolved (including by making determinations relating to such complaints) in a way that is fair, efficient, timely and independent; and
 - (b) reasonable steps are taken to ensure compliance by members of the scheme with those determinations.
- RG 139.156 Non-compliance with a scheme decision—in particular, the non-payment of a determination—is reportable to ASIC under s1052E(1)(d): see RG 139.37.

- RG 139.157 The AFCA constitution will set out the steps AFCA can take if a member refuses to comply with applicable terms of reference or with any scheme decision.
- RG 139.158 As membership of AFCA is in most cases a statutory requirement, AFCA must inform ASIC as soon as practicable after any resolution to expel a member is passed by the AFCA Board.
- RG 139.159 We have a range of administrative responses available, following a referral from AFCA about a serious contravention or failure to give effect to an AFCA determination: see 1052E(1). For example, subject to holding a hearing, we might:
- (a) impose or vary licence conditions, including imposing a condition that requires ongoing compliance with AFCA's terms of reference and decisions;
 - (b) suspend or revoke the licence for the failure of the licensee to conduct business efficiently, honestly and fairly.
- Note: See Regulatory Guide 8 Hearings practice manual (RG 8) for more information about hearing procedures.

Finality of AFCA decisions

- RG 139.160 The determination of a superannuation complaint by AFCA comes into operation immediately on the making of the determination: s1055B. If AFCA's determination is to vary or substitute a trustee decision, the AFCA determination is taken (unless otherwise ordered) to have had effect on and from the day on which the original decision (that was the subject of the complaint) has or had effect.
- RG 139.161 The AFCA Act preserves certain legal rights available to the parties to a superannuation complaint under the SCT. It provides that a party to a superannuation complaint may appeal to the Federal Court on a question of law, from AFCA's determination of the complaint: s1057.
- RG 139.162 For non-superannuation complaints, AFCA decisions are not binding unless the consumer accepts the scheme's decision at the end of the AFCA process and (when a compensation cap applies) waives the excess of their claim, if applicable.
- RG 139.163 Consumers also retain their legal right to reject an AFCA decision and pursue their complaint in a court of competent jurisdiction.
- RG 139.164 The AFCA terms of reference and supporting guidance will set out the circumstances and process by which a consumer or financial firm may seek:
- (a) the correction of an error in calculation of loss;

- (b) to access the independent assessor for review of AFCA's complaints handling process (which does not involve re-opening the underlying decision);
- (c) to use the scheme's test case procedure.

Available remedies

- RG 139.165 For superannuation complaints, AFCA must determine a complaint (including providing any remedies) in accordance with s1055.
- RG 139.166 For non-superannuation complaints, AFCA remedies must be consistent with the remedies available under the relevant laws that apply to financial firms, consumers, small business and superannuation fund members.
- RG 139.167 AFCA must, at a minimum, compensate consumers for any direct loss or damage caused by a breach of any obligation owed in relation to the provision of a financial or credit product or service. This excludes an award for punitive or exemplary damages.
- RG 139.168 AFCA may also make appropriate non-monetary orders obliging a member to take (or not take) a particular course of action in order to effectively resolve a dispute. Examples of non-monetary orders that AFCA might make are:
- (a) releasing the consumer from a contract and refunding any money paid plus interest;
 - (b) varying the terms of a contract, provided any third party rights are not affected; and
 - (c) releasing documents and/or information relating to the complainant that are under the control of the financial or credit product or service provider.
- RG 139.169 AFCA may consider claims for non-financial loss where appropriate. AFCA's terms of reference should set out the relevant criteria for any such claims.

Referring complaints back to the financial firm

- RG 139.170 IDR is the first step to resolve consumer and small business complaints against financial firms. It gives the firm and the complainant the first opportunity to resolve the complaint.
- RG 139.171 The Ramsay Review considered the interaction of IDR and EDR and found there were benefits of the EDR scheme referring complaints back to the financial firm for a final opportunity to resolve the complaint—within a defined timeframe—before it progresses at the EDR scheme.

RG 139.172 The Ramsay Review also recommended that the EDR scheme should register and track the progress of complaints referred back to firms in this way.

Note: See Ramsay Review, Final report: Review of the financial system external dispute resolution and complaints framework, May 2017, p. 193.

RG 139.173 In this guidance, we call these ‘refer back’ arrangements. We consider that there are two types of ‘refer backs’:

- (a) complaints made to AFCA that have not previously been through IDR, or where the relevant IDR timeframe has not elapsed; and
- (b) complaints that have been through IDR where a firm has given its ‘final response’ to the complaint, or the relevant IDR timeframe has elapsed (see RG 165).

RG 139.174 The ‘refer back’ arrangements will not apply to death benefit superannuation complaints.

RG 139.175 AFCA’s terms of reference and supporting guidance should set out its approach to refer back arrangements. AFCA should collect data, including resolution rates of complaints referred back to the financial firm that:

- (a) had not previously been to IDR, including complaints lodged with AFCA before the IDR timeframe has elapsed; and
- (b) had been through IDR, including complaints where the IDR timeframe has elapsed.

RG 139.176 AFCA should monitor and report on firms’ compliance with the refer back timeframes. AFCA should also monitor and periodically review its approach to refer backs, to ensure that refer back arrangements do not introduce unproductive delay or other unanticipated or undesirable impacts on consumers or firms.

Complaints that have not been through (or completed) IDR

RG 139.177 Where a complaint has not been through (or completed) a financial firm’s IDR process, the relevant IDR timeframe as set out in RG 165 will apply to the refer back complaint.

RG 139.178 We expect AFCA to:

- (a) register and refer the complaint back to the firm;
- (b) confirm with the complainant if the complaint is resolved; and
- (c) close the complaint if it is resolved.

RG 139.179 If the complaint is not resolved, AFCA will progress the complaint in accordance with its complaint resolution processes.

Complaints that have been through IDR

RG 139.180 Where a complaint has been through IDR, AFCA's refer back arrangements should:

- (a) set out the maximum timeframe for the firm to either resolve the complaint or give its final response;
- (b) retain sufficient discretion to identify complaints that are not appropriate to refer back to the financial firm.

Note: This may be appropriate in relation to complaints about financial hardship—for example, in cases where there is a postponement of enforcement proceedings.

- (c) provide for the circumstances where:
 - (i) an extension of time for resolving a complaint is warranted; and
 - (ii) a complainant may challenge any extension of time granted by AFCA.

Systemic issues

RG 139.181 In resolving an individual complaint, or series of complaints, AFCA may identify a systemic issue. This is an issue that may:

- (a) affect more than one complainant—for example, where there is a mistake in how interest is calculated or in how a fee is applied;
- (b) involve many complaints that are similar in nature—for example, where a particular intermediary has mis-sold financial or credit products or services to a number of consumers;
- (c) affect all current or potential complainants at a particular firm—for example, where a firm's IDR complaints handling processes are poor or inadequate; or
- (d) affect more than one firm.

RG 139.182 The systemic issues role is a critical and proactive part of the complaints resolution process. A systemic approach to resolving complaints helps identify problems that are causing current complaints or that are likely to cause, or affect the resolution of, future complaints.

RG 139.183 Identifying and dealing with systemic issues has been a mandatory feature of the industry-based financial services dispute resolution framework for more than 15 years. The Ramsay Review endorsed the systemic issues role played by EDR schemes as key to improving industry practice.

Note: See Ramsay Review, Final report: Review of the financial system external dispute resolution and complaints framework, May 2017, p. 14.

- RG 139.184 To perform its systemic issues role, AFCA must have systems and processes in place to:
- (a) identify systemic issues that arise from its consideration of complaints;
 - (b) refer these matters to the financial firm for response and action; and
 - (c) report systemic issues to regulators in accordance with s1052E(4) (see RG 139.55).
- RG 139.185 AFCA’s systemic issues role can help to:
- (a) efficiently deal with multiple complaints about a single issue or problem;
 - (b) remedy financial loss suffered by consumers (not all of whom may have complained about the conduct or problem);
 - (c) prevent foreseeable loss to consumers and, more generally, ensure that ‘high-risk’ issues might be effectively dealt with before problems develop;
 - (d) minimise the risk of the conduct or problem recurring;
 - (e) improve industry practice and communication; and
 - (f) send a signal to the market about what constitutes acceptable market behaviour.
- RG 139.186 AFS licensees are separately required to report certain breaches (or likely breaches) of financial services laws: s912D. Reforms to the breach reporting requirements are being contemplated in the context of the ASIC Enforcement Review. Subject to the outcomes of that process we may issue further regulatory guidance.

Note: See Treasury, ASIC Enforcement Review Position and Consultation Paper 1: Self-reporting of contraventions by financial services and credit licensees, 11 April 2017. See also Regulatory Guide 78 Breach reporting by AFS licensees (RG 78).

Accountability

Independent assessor

- RG 139.187 It is a mandatory requirement that AFCA have an independent assessor. The Explanatory Memorandum states at paragraph 1.48 that:
- ... the scheme must have an independent assessor to assess the handling of complaints, with a focus on reviewing the service provided to users in the handling of the disputes (if the assessor determines that the complaint was not handled satisfactorily, the assessor may recommend that AFCA take certain actions).
- RG 139.188 The independent assessor will play an important role supporting AFCA’s quality assurance and accountability frameworks.

RG 139.189 The primary role of the independent assessor is to:

- (a) respond to complaints about how AFCA dealt with an individual complaint or series of complaints;
- (b) identify, address and report on issues affecting AFCA's complaint handling operations and performance; and
- (c) as appropriate, make recommendations or provide remedies to identified issues.

RG 139.190 It is not the role of the independent assessor to:

- (a) undertake a merits review of an AFCA decision, including a jurisdictional decision; or
- (b) re-open a complaint or the outcome of a complaint.

RG 139.191 The independent assessor must:

- (a) be appointed by the AFCA Board, with their role and functions set out in the terms of reference and publicly available;
- (b) have sufficient powers and resources to perform its functions;
- (c) be independent with appropriate qualifications and experience;
- (d) accept service complaints from all users of the scheme;
- (e) identify, address and report on issues affecting the AFCA's complaints handling operations and performance;
- (f) make recommendations, as appropriate, to the Chief Ombudsman and to the AFCA Board;
- (g) identify any issues that may benefit from further review or analysis—for example, in an independent review;
- (h) report to the AFCA Board and to ASIC on a quarterly basis; and
- (i) report publicly on an annual basis on complaints received, findings or recommendations made and outcomes achieved.

Independent reviews

Post-commencement review

RG 139.192 The AFCA Act requires the Minister to bring about an independent review as soon as practicable 18 months from commencement of operations. This review must consider the:

- (a) operational requirement that complaints are resolved in a way that is fair, efficient, timely and independent (s1051(4)(b)); and
- (b) appropriateness of limits on the value of claims that may be made and the value of remedies that may be determined (including the appropriateness of limits in relation to credit facilities provided to primary production businesses, including agriculture, fisheries and forestry businesses).

RG 139.193 The Minister will require a written report about this review, which must be tabled in Parliament.

Note: See s4 of the AFCA Act.

Periodic reviews

RG 139.194 It is a mandatory requirement that AFCA commission periodic independent reviews of the scheme's operations and procedures: s1051(3)(a).

RG 139.195 Consistent with the Ramsay Review recommendations, AFCA must commission a comprehensive independent review at least every five years.

RG 139.196 Periodic independent reviews have been a feature of the industry-based dispute resolution framework and have been a primary driver of improvements to scheme operations and performance.

RG 139.197 Independent reviews have identified gaps and opportunities for improvement, and provided a road-map for the future development of financial services EDR. They have led to:

- (a) changes to scheme jurisdiction and complaints handling procedures to improve the efficiency and timeliness of scheme decision making;
- (b) improvements to the clarity, quality and timeliness of scheme decision making;
- (c) re-allocation of scheme resources, increases in staff training and provision of additional expertise;
- (d) improvements to scheme communications, member engagement and reporting;
- (e) improvements to scheme oversight of firm performance at IDR; and
- (f) innovation and quality assurance measures, designed to improve user experience and increase the efficiency of complaints handling.

RG 139.198 We may use ASIC's general directions power (under s1052C) to require AFCA to commission a comprehensive or more targeted independent review if we consider that AFCA has not done all thing reasonably practicable to comply with:

- (a) the mandatory requirements;
- (b) any condition the Minister specifies in the authorisation for the AFCA scheme; and
- (c) any regulatory requirements issued by ASIC for the AFCA scheme.

Note: See s1052C(1).

DRAFT

RG 139.199 In commissioning an independent review, the AFCA Board must consult with ASIC and seek our approval on the:

- (a) selection and appointment of the independent reviewer, taking into account their independence, qualifications and expertise;
- (b) scope and terms of reference of the independent review; and
- (c) timeframe for the independent review.

RG 139.200 The AFCA Board must publish the final report of any independent review and publicly respond to each recommendation on an 'if not, why not' basis.

RG 139.201 AFCA's public response to an independent review should include its implementation response and timetable.
