Guest speaker and synopsis:	Professor Mihir A. Desai Mizuho Financial Group Professor of Finance, Harvard Business School, Professor of Law, Harvard Law School and author of The Wisdom of Finance - How the humanities can illuminate and improve finance “Challenges facing the finance industry at the moment include understanding the social context in which it operates and remembering that it deals with other people’s money. How do we bridge the gulf between finance and the people it seeks to serve? And how do we show that finance is deeply ingrained into humanity? Mihir Desai argues that the widening chasm between the arts and science, and humanities and finance, has created a disconnect in the industry with implications for real people. He suggests that only by rediscovering the humanity in the core ideas of finance can we both improve the practice of finance, and the way it is perceived in wider society.”
