

CRIS: ASIC INDUSTRY FUNDING MODEL (2023–24)

This document is part of ASIC’s 2023–24 CRIS. It should be read in conjunction with the other documents that make up the CRIS, including the key terms.

B Corporate sector

Key points

This document outlines:

- our work during 2023-24 to regulate the corporate sector—for our ongoing regulatory activities, see paragraphs 1–10, and for our strategic work, see Table 1;
- the estimated levies to recover our costs—for a summary of the indicative levies for each subsector, see Table 2; and
- more detailed breakdowns of estimated costs for each subsector—see Table 3–Table 9.

The estimated levies are a guide only. The final levies will be based on our actual cost of regulating each subsector in 2023–24.

Overview of the corporate sector

- 1 The corporate sector consists of:
 - (a) companies, including:
 - (i) listed corporations;
 - (ii) unlisted public companies;
 - (iii) large proprietary companies; and
 - (b) certain members of our regulated population that provide professional services:
 - (i) auditors of disclosing entities;
 - (ii) registered company auditors; and
 - (iii) registered liquidators.
- 2 Small proprietary companies are not included as a subsector in the ASIC Supervisory Cost Recovery Regulations 2017 (Cost Recovery Levy Regulations) because we recover our regulatory costs for this subsector a through the $4 increase to the annual review fee for proprietary companies, which was introduced in July 2018. This minimises the regulatory burden on small proprietary companies by ensuring they only pay one fee each year. This is a registry fee and is not charged within the Australian Government Charging Framework. However, we have included our estimated costs for regulating small proprietary companies in the CRIS to provide transparency on our work in this sector.

Note: The $4 increase is subject to indexation and applies to all proprietary companies. We will reduce our levy for large proprietary companies by an amount equal to the additional $4 (indexed) that large proprietary companies will pay through the increase to the annual review fee.

Our ongoing regulatory work

- 3 We use the full suite of our regulatory tools to promote integrity in this sector in order to bring about sound consumer outcomes. This includes, where appropriate, taking enforcement action to address misconduct. This action may span several years.
- 4 Our focus is on promoting sound corporate conduct and enforcing the law to minimise and respond to misconduct. Our work includes supervision and surveillance that targets corporate governance practices, corporate transactions and disclosures. This includes:
 - (a) surveillance of, and reviewing, public corporate finance activity, reports of misconduct and governance-related conduct. We primarily review activity and conduct by listed companies, to maintain an informed market and reduce harms to investors; and
 - (b) reviewing financial reports of listed entities and other public interest entities on a risk basis.
- 5 In relation to auditors, our ongoing focus is on audit quality and the consistency of audit execution to support the integrity of financial reporting. This includes:
 - (a) reviewing audits of listed entities and other public interest entities on a risk basis, focusing on asset values, provisions and revenue;
 - (b) engaging with the largest six audit firms to better understand aspects of their quality control systems;
 - (c) publishing the results of our audit surveillances;
 - (d) reviewing our activities for regulating auditors, focusing on the audit surveillance program; and
 - (e) implementing changes, where appropriate, to the audit surveillance program and communicating with key stakeholder groups on these changes.

- 6 Our work in relation to registered liquidators seeks to ensure that they fulfil their statutory duties and roles as fiduciaries diligently and independently. We continue to influence better outcomes in the insolvency space by:
- (a) providing information to the public about corporate insolvency in Australia and regulation of registered liquidators, including new data available to ASIC;
 - (b) using information collected from online forms to inform our guidance to industry on compliance with their obligations;
 - (c) engaging with Treasury on policy issues relevant to existing and proposed corporate insolvency law; and
 - (d) providing new and updated guidance (regulatory guides, information sheets or FAQs) to registered liquidators on key regulatory issues about how ASIC proposes to administer the law.
- 7 We continue to engage with external stakeholders and manage our relationships with them through, for example:
- (a) ongoing liaison meetings with key stakeholders, including through our advisory panels, on a range of matters (e.g. corporate governance, corporate finance, accounting and auditing policy, technical issues and insolvency);
 - (b) quarterly newsletters on our regulation of corporate finance and our response to novel relief applications and on corporate insolvency issues;
- 8 The level of our regulatory activity in each subsector in the corporate sector depends on our assessment of the level of potential harm posed by the subsector. For example, we dedicate a significantly larger amount of our regulatory effort to listed corporations, compared to small proprietary companies, because misconduct by listed corporations has the potential to cause greater harm to investors and to fair, strong and efficient financial markets.

Strategic work in this sector

- 9 ASIC's Corporate Plan 2023–27: Focus 2023–24 outlines our strategic priorities for the next four years and our planned actions for 2023–24. The corporate plan also sets out our core strategic projects, which support the delivery on our strategic priorities.
- 10 Our strategic priorities inform our 2024 enforcement priorities which communicate our intent to industry and indicate where we will direct our resources and expertise.
- 11 Table 1 sets out our areas of focus in the corporate sector in 2023–24.

Note: In Table 1, the strategic work may apply to the listed relevant subsectors, depending on prevailing circumstances. Our key actions for some strategic work can apply to multiple sectors and subsectors, particularly for our core strategic projects. This means that there may be other relevant sectors and subsectors for this work outside the corporate sector.
