Dear s 22

ASIC updates information available through purchased extracts

Thank you for our call this morning. As discussed, ASIC has made important changes to current and historical companies register extracts to address concerns about the availability of directors' personal information on ASIC business registers.

While our program to uplift and stabilise the ASIC business registers (RegistryConnect) aims to support the delivery of a permanent solution, we've removed officeholder residential addresses from the current and historical company search extracts purchased through the ASIC website.

The removal of address information from the company extract is intended as immediate action to remove the most publicly available source of residential address information. It's not intended to remove residential address information entirely. This information is important for many legitimate business and legal activities.

ASIC has been working to better understand the legitimate business and legal use cases for company officeholder residential address information.

Commencing this week, we will be having discussions with a range of ASIC data consumers to explain this change and to discuss the adjustments they will need to make to ensure that access to officeholder residential address information is limited to legitimate business and legal purposes.

I'd encourage you to share our news item promoting this change with your colleagues and members. And let us know if we can answer any questions.

Kind regards,
